Royals and Shermans Predomiante Absorbing Race Which Is Curent in District Loop, Where Bontz Stars.

By KIRK C. MILLER.

With the longest and most tedious portion of the bowling schoolules completed in the many leagues | which flourish in Washington, the teams are now turning the bank in the race which leads to the straightaway and the competition from this out promises of the most fascinating and interesting character.

The holidays generally punctuate the halfway mark in the many schedules which are nightly being pursued, and with this emphatic station passed, every team and every bowler is looking to the final spurt, which department of the race is destined to test the true metal of the contestants.

For this reason, it is timely to neer into the condition of the teams as they line up in the present struggles, and many interesting facts are revealed by a close perusal of some of the competi-

Washington's largest league the Masonic twenty-team circuit, rightly comes first in this consideration, and here is a contest which finds the first three teams separated by but one game each. Lafavette, Stansbury, and Columbia have sligned themselves at the front in the order named and indications are new that those three will furnish a merry struggle from now until May 16, when the schedule closes.

By no means is the Washington Centennial five out of the race, for it stands in the .700 class with the three named above, and the slightest weakening by either of the first three named will find the Centennial lads forging to the front in a manner which will well demonstrate their intention of lighting to a finish.

in individual performances. H. R. Halley, the old reliable "Pop," is capering around the alleys like a young boy. His average of 104-22 pins per game gives him this distinction. Schmidt, of Columbia, continues to have high set and high game, 372 and 149, and it is hardly expected that this mark will be

Blind Players Show How to Shoot Goals

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 16 .- Columbus has a basketball team that literally can shoot baskets with its eyes shut! Fans who've seen the boys in action say they're wonders. The little squad of sightless lads wear the colors of the Ohio State School for the Blind.

There's Joe Arndt, of Lima, Ohio, whirlwind forward; Jue's left eye has only 3-200 normal vision and his right eye 5-200 normal vision. Yet Joe, in the three games he's played this season, has averaged 151/2 baskets a game. B. McQueen, captain and center, has a cataract on his right eye and his left eye is 1-25 normal. But he has wierd, uncanny sense of where the basket is and sticks 'em in the pan, one, two, three.
